5. We Didn't Start the Fire

When asked about his inspiration for the song, he said "I was talking to this young guy in his early '20s and he was talking about what a hard time this was to grow up in, with crack and AIDS. And I thought, we said that when we were that age. Jeez, there was Vietnam, the Kennedy assassinations, drugs, Nixon...the song is saying, 'Look, we didn't start the fire, we tried to fight it, but it was burning and it's gonna burn on after we're gone and it's gonna burn on after you're gone, too. That's the way the world is, imperfect; you have to learn to deal with it. But don't give up! Change what you can change; don't fall into cynicism and despair."

For the assignment, each person will be required to research and create a “History Connect” poster highlighting a person, place or event featured in “We Didn’t Start the Fire”.

IKE in a Box

“I have only one yardstick by which I test every problem - and that is: Is it good for America?”

“How did President Eisenhower affect the culture, economy, and the country during the 1950’s?

Working with a partner of your choice:
You should read the chapter from “To the Best of My Ability” on President Eisenhower. Next, identify a major domestic or foreign event of Eisenhower’s presidency. You and your partner should find an ‘artifact’ that represents your event to place in our class box.

Examples:

1. If you wanted to represent how Eisenhower balanced the federal budget, you could bring in a dollar or monopoly money.

2. If you wanted to demonstrate how IKE changed the political landscape of the 1950’s you could make a button from the 1952 or 1956 Election.
ITEMS SHOULD BE PHYSICAL ARTIFACTS NOT MERELY PRINTED OFF THE INTERNET!

Finally, you and your partner need to complete the following the IKE in the Box worksheet.

You will be graded on the following rubric:
